"REAL MONEY, OF ITSELF."

We call the attention of our readers, Democrats as well as Republicans, to the following answer to an inquiry printed in the Commercial Saturday evening, which, even more plainly than our former citation, shows the recklessness and dishonesty of its editor:

WHAT MONEY IS.

RILEY MILLS, Me., July 2, 1878.

MR. EMERY:—Will you inform me through your columns of inquiries and answers, whether or not a paper dollar, issued by Government and redeemable in coin, is real money of itself. It is difficult to give a comprehensive definition of money so that it will not be open to criticism and objection. And yet everybody knows what money is. One very general definition of the term is, that which when you can go into the market and immediately use it in the general purchase of commodities or in paying debts. It is of the essence of money, that it is capable of making immediate payment either to satisfy a seller or a creditor. It is a mistaken idea that metals constitute the only money. There is paper money as well as metallic money.—Eds. COM.]

The man who would make such an answer to such a question cannot avail of any quibble upon that broader definition of "money" which embraces all sorts of business and individual exchanges such as notes, checks, drafts, etc., for the inquiry and the reply specifically relate to "real money of itself." The Commercial editor tells the inquirer that a paper dollar issued by the Government and redeemable in coin, is real money of itself." Why does he say "redeemable in coin," when he has constantly asserted, and reiterates in the same column, that redeemability in coin is not necessary to make a paper dollar as good as gold and at par with it?" And if the paper dollar is "real money of itself," what need of making it "redeemable" in some other kind of dollar? The deception and pettifogging are transparent and contemptible. If the editor of that paper does not know that a so-called "paper dollar issued by the Government" is not real money of itself, and is not in fact a "dollar," but simply "a promise to pay" a dollar, he is too ignorant to assume to answer such queries. If he does know the obvious truth, as we have no doubt he does, his dishonesty is more shameful than ignorance would be.

It happens that this question has been answered most explicitly by an authority on the subject not likely to be questioned—no less august an authority than the Supreme Court of the United States. And we refer that inquirer whom the Commercial has so deliberately sought to confuse and deceive, to the following complete and conclusive reply to his question, furnished in a formal decision of the Supreme Court delivered by Chief Justice Chase in 1869, in a case involving the quality and character of what are known as the Greenback paper dollars or legal tender notes:

"* * * These notes are obligations of the United States. Their name imports obligation. Every one of them expresses upon its face AN ENGAGEMENT OF THE NATION TO PAY the bearer a certain sum. THE DOLLAR NOTE IS AN ENGAGEMENT TO PAY A DOLLAR, AND THE DOLLAR INTENDED IS THE COINED DOLLAR OF THE UNITED STATES; A CERTAIN QUANTITY IN WEIGHT AND FINENESS OF GOLD OR SILVER, AUTHENTICATED AS SUCH BY THE STAMP OF THE GOVERNMENT."

We think the intelligent reader will find more sense in the answer thus given by the Supreme Court, than in the shuffling words of even so eminent a "lawyer" as Marcellus Emery.

The anonymous writer in the Commercial employs a column to inform us that he is advocating a 3.65 interconvertible bond scheme, and is anxious for our opinion of it. As that raggery has been discussed and exploded over and again during the past eight years and is not fathered by anybody in particular at this time, we do not feel like wasting time to prick a collapsed bubble. If the Greenbackers would settle on that or any other distinct theory it might be worth while to rip up the fragments again, but the 3.65 bond scheme is repudiated by Leo. Miller, the ex-trance-medium imported into Maine to instruct the people on finance, who declares that Government should loan the people directly all the money they want at not more than 1½ per cent. interest per annum, which it could hardly do while paying nearly 4 per cent. itself; and Moses Hull, an ex-free-love advocate, who has also been brought to Maine to preach a new financial creed, has his own special plan of making everybody rich. Even Ben. Butler, whom the writer quotes as the champion of the 3.65 scheme has just committed himself in a Fourth of July harangue to other and wilder extravagances, such as this:

My proposition is, and I put it forth boldly, that we should issue $400,000,000 of non-interest bearing notes of the United States, to settle the unemployed laboring men of the United States upon the public lands of the United States.

This is worse than the "forty acres and a mule," with the promise of which the Democrats so joosely accused the Republican party of having deceived the colored voters of the South, and it is but a mild specimen of the rant with which Butler signalizes his contempt for public intelligence. We advise these Greenbackers to find out what their financial doctrine is—if they have any beyond the delusion that the Government can make everybody's millionaire by act of Congress.

A CHAMPION FOR MURCH.

While the Belfast Age man found the proceedings of the Greenback nominating strikers too rank for his indorsement or support, the wild young warrior of the Camden Herald comes up smiling after his summary knock down, and with blood in his eye and a little red flag in his hat, ratifies the result which defeated the "latest rival," and raises the names of Hon. Joseph L. Smith for Governor," and "Thompson H. Murch for Representative to Congress," in loving companionship at the head of his columns. It is sad to find the apostles of "reform movements" so early accusing each other of "political" tricks, but the editor of the Age denounces the Convention as packed by the stone-cutters, and now the bellicose Perry launches maledictions at Rust for stealing his delegates by packing caucus in Camden. Hear the plaint of this guileless youth at the manner in which his more experienced competitor "played it on him," so to speak, in his own town:

The friends of Mr. Perry were very much surprised that he received but 11 votes and a word of explanation is due him. He or his friends did not dream that the friends of Mr. Rust would pack a caucus in Camden and actually secure four of the five out of the eleven delegates. It seemed too much like the practice of the old political tricksters. Had anything of this sort been anticipated the delegates would have been chosen by ballot, in which event Mr. Perry would have had the delegation by more than ten to one. Delegates from other towns were surprised to see about one-half of the delegates from Camden working and voting against their own townsman, and they said to themselves that it could not be expected of them to support a man when his own town would not work against him. Had his own town voted and worked for him it is fair to presume that his vote would have been many times larger. He announced that he never had wished for or expected the nomination, never had picked a caucus or turned his hand over for it. His name has ever been to prefer influence to office, and at his young time of life is not willing to begin to follow in the wake of old politicians by trading off his influence with the people for caucus votes.

As the "first sence" of such a gifted and modest young man must be immense "with the people of Camden," we don't wonder that he is averse to "trading it off" at "his young time of life," after getting but eleven votes in such a congenial crowd as this: at Belfast. That "influence" of so high-minded and conservative a youth must be a great thing o the people of Camden, and the Rev. Edward Freeman must certainly feel great pride in having presented and recommended as a candidate for Congress, the calm and judicious young man who echoes and indorses in his paper the threats of Brick Pomeroy and his ilk, that unless the people consent to financial debauchery, it will be forced upon them by Communist bullets. Take them all in all, those Fifth District Greenbackers afford an instructive spectacle for the contemplation of respectable, law abiding citizens.

GENERAL SHERMAN ON THE ARMY DISORGANIZERS.

General Sherman, entertains a diminutive opinion of the Bounding Banting. He says Eph. Holland's Congressman hasn't brains enough to be a dry goods clerk, and proceeds to prove it by criticising the Army bill. He tells the Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Times that the army cannot be used to protect emigrants or to suppress riots unless the President declares war in the excited district; that he and General Sheridan will have to go after infantry, because the bill provides that no officer east of the Mississippi River shall be allowed forage, and no officer can keep a horse without forage; that a light battery in St. Louis will present the courious spectacle of drilling with the men mounted and the officers on foot. "In fact," concluded the General, "the law is full of absurdities and inconsistencies. The posse comitatus part was dictated by the people whom we have whipped and who don't want to see Union soldiers." It is getting so we shall have to apologize to the people we whipped. Thank God my own horses are all dead and I shall not have to apologize to them for the meanness of Congress. I should have to be obliged to tell them that the Government wouldn't feed them."

EASILY SETTLED.

The editor of the Commercial took occasion Saturday evening to employ numerous explosive epithets in denying the truthfulness of our statement that it had in the past denounced Samuel J. Randall as a salary-grabber, a slave of the corporations of Pennsylvania and a supple tool of the Republicans. We do not propose to have any controversy as to the accuracy of our impressions of Emery's references to Randall, which we shall coincide with those of many of his readers, but will submit the matter to a very simple test. If Marcellus Emery will afford to a person designated by us free access to the daily and weekly files of his paper and we fail to find in a columns justification for our statement, we engage to retract it. That is more conclusive than bandying words, and if our contemporary is as willing to establish its facts as we are he cannot afford to decline

"FRUITS OF CONCILIATION."

[From the N. Y. Tribune.]

The recent apportionment of the State of Ohio so as to secure the greatest possible number of Democratic Congressmen consistent with a small number of Democratic votes, was thought to be a masterpiece of gerrymandering. But Louisiana had not then been heard from. We hear from Louisiana to-day, and the Ohio job takes rank as a bungling affair, crude and inartistic. A correspondent tells the story elsewhere of the processes by which the Louisiana Democrats, in reapportioning the State into legislative districts, stole thirty-seven seats, and made a Legislature which would probably be Republican, irrevocably and absolutely Democratic. The details of this case show it to be a most flagrant one; every Democrat has counted for two, and no five Republicans have counted for more than one, if they were counted at all. Probably no party has been without sin in such matters, but when in a Republican State only two-sevenths of the Assembly and one-fifth of the Senate can by any possibility be Republican, it must be admitted that the Democratic party has achieved one of the cleverest political burglaries on record.

The N. Y. Tribune remarks: Here are the opening sentences of a call for a State Convention just issued, which the political quidnuncs will be apt to think significant: "The Republicans of Maine, and all independent voters who are in favor of preserving the credit of the National Government, and a sound currency for the people—equivalent to coin and redeemable in coin—are requested to send delegates to a State Convention to be held in the City Hall at Portland, Tuesday, July 30. The first signature to this call is that of James G. Blaine, Kennebec, Chairman."

When that eminent "carpet-bagger," ex-Governor Walker of Virginia, sat down in Tammany Hall, after rejoicing that the army could no longer be used to suppress riots, the band very appropriately played "Dixie."

EARLY PROSPECT OF RESUMPTION.

Washington specials unite in asserting good authority for saying that Secretary Sherman contemplates resumption before the meeting of Congress, certainly before December 1.

There are many reasons which tend to induce Secretary Sherman to make this decision. Among them are these: First, the probabilities are that within two or three months the great bulk of customs duties will be received in silver certificates, and the Treasury is now likely to have much more gold from customs sources before January 1, 1879, than it now has. Secondly, if resumption should be announced, and should produce practical, there would be no excuse at the next session of Congress for the great bank repudiators to attempt to execute any of their inflation schemes, and above all things not to repeal the Resumption Act after resumption was an accomplished fact. Thirdly, if the Treasury can resume at coin pay by law, it would be a feat which certainly would not be without its effect in the coming Congressional campaign, and which would do much to stop the mouths of those inflation apostles who are preaching a gospel of ruin and disaster should resumption come.

An answer to the possible suggestion that the Secretary has not now gold enough in the Treasury to resume, and that the Resumption Act does not furnish him with sufficient machinery to purchase the gold by the sale of bonds for that purpose, has already been given in a despatch, showing that under the almost forgotten law of section 3,700 of the Revised Statutes, the Secretary of the Treasury has ample power to purchase all the gold necessary for resumption purposes. Treasury people think, in view of that law, that it would be quite as practicable to resume August 1 as it will be January 1; and that resumption even at that early date is entirely possible.

FROM COLORADO. We have received from Ira W. Davis, Esq., formerly of this County, but now Principal of the public school at Blackhawk, Colorado, a most fine photographic views of that mountain city, including a picture of the quartz mill of Boyfall Mine, situated in the centre of Blackhawk and one of the most noted mines in the Country. The streets are all what are called "gulches" except those far up the mountain sides, and rise like terraces on the slopes. The Colorado Central R. R., passes through the city at an altitude of 8,800 feet above the sea level.

POUND KEEPER'S NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that one dark red horse, the property of Elizabeth J. Gould, was to-day taken up in the highway in the town of Corinth by W. E. Said horse was taken up on the 6th day of July, 1878, because he ran at large without a keeper in said highway, and the owner is hereby notified to pay lawful damages, fees, expenses and charges, and take said horse away.

Corinth, July 6, 1878. d3w

To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot:

The undersigned, administratrix of the estate of George Reynolds, late of Bangor, in said County, deceased, respectfully represents that the personal estate, rights and credits of said deceased are not sufficient to pay his just debts and charges of administration, by a sum exceeding two hundred dollars.

Wherefore your petitioner prays your Honor to grant her power to sell by license at public or private sale, and convey the whole of the following described real estate of the deceased, (including the reversion of the widow's dower therein,) as the widow consents to be greatly diminished by a sale of any portion, viz:

The homestead farm of said deceased, situated on the westerly side of Mount street, in said Bangor, and bounded northerly of the late homestead of said deceased; also the nursery and lot in rear of said homestead; also the house and lot on westerly side of Mount Hope Market street and southerly side of Division street; also a wood lot in Holden in said County, of 50 acres more or less; also a house and lot on Prince street, in said Bangor; to satisfy said debts, expenses and charges of administration.

Said real estate is the same described in a deed recorded in the Registry of Deeds of said County.
